Where Our Women Toil To Gird the Warriors

Toni Jo Dies

In Chair for Salesman Murder

Mrs. Henry Neff

And Nervous as She Goes to Death

Lake City, Fla., Nov. 8 (N): Mrs. Anna Beardslee, 33, of Orange City, Fla., was murdered and strangled, was put to death about early this afternoon in the elevator chair for the elevator of an hotel in Orange City.

The elevator, known as the "J" elevator, is used exclusively for the disabled and the elderly. Mrs. Beardslee, who was taking a nap in the hotel, was found dead in the elevator with her hands tied behind her back.

How American Women have gone to war on the home front to keep supplies moving to the battlefront.

Premier Mussolini

Is Reported To Be Gravely Ill

Government Seeking Separate Peace for Italy May Be Set Up

Montevideo, Uruguay, Nov. 8 (AP): Reports from a reliable South American diplomatic source said today that Premier Mussolini has become gravely ill and that he is being taken to a government hospital for treatment.

The reports were similar to those that Mussolini was to receive treatment for a severe illness.

How did American women contribute to the war effort? What was Mussolini's condition and what was the government doing about it? What happened to Toni Jo? For more details, please refer to the full article.